1. Reflections

Note: Please see Section 2 for the opportunity to see a film from the late, great Wayne Dyer at no charge.

Also, if you're reading this via Facebook or LinkedIn, please be advised that you will get it quicker if you get it via email. Another advantage: You'll never miss it that way because you may not have logged in for a day or two. And in the unlikely event you're not already a subscriber, all you need to do is send an email to blainc@aol.com and put SUBSCRIPTION in the subject line.

A. Cynthia, my beautiful bride, and I:

(1) Enjoyed a lovely evening at the Latin Festival in our Biltmore Lake community. That's us with Brury Lugo who did a fantastic job chairing the event, and her husband Orlando Nieves. Kudos, also, to Picante (the band that can be seen in the background of the picture below), Hector Diaz for his catering and all the members of the Community Recreation & Events Committee who helped make the event the success that it was.

(2) Had a tasty dinner outside at Thai Tara that featured great service from Miami.

(3) On another night, we went to BT's Burger Joint in Biltmore Park. I had this picture taken, so that I could enter a contest that was being run. (You had to show with of the hamburgers.) The pretzel bun that came with it made it especially delicious.

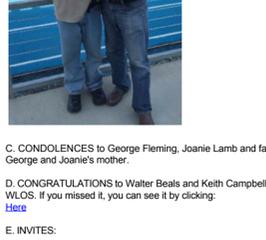

B. During the past week, I:

(1) Saw a beautiful production of INTO THE WOODS at the HART Theatre in Waynesville. Pictured on the bottom: Strother Garland, in the middle: Mike Yow and in the top row, l-r: Blaine Greenfield, Karen Covington-Yow and Tabitha Judy. Daniel Hershey's direction was spot on, as was Sarah Fowler's musical direction and Isaac Fuik's work as stage manager/vocal coach.

Others in the cast and orchestra were equally outstanding, including Heather Nicole Bronson, Holly Caldwell, Harmony Canaday, Dwight Chiles, Sarah Coxkins, Holly Cope, Tom Dewees, Lyn Donley, Stephen A. Goryn, Kristin Hedberg, John Highsmith, Trissa King, Rod Leigh, Charles Mills, Candice Owen Rachel Swanson, Emily Warren, David Yeates, Misty Theisen and David Bruce.

And good news: You can still catch this show through October 16. For tickets, please click:

(2) Heard my friend George Pappas give an informative presentation on his book, THE LITERARY GENEALOGY, at UNCA. He wowed all those in attendance.

Special bonus: If you're a fan or friend of George's, make sure you also play the "Farewell Speech" he gave at the end. To view that, please click:

***** CONTEST #19 *****

One lucky reader will win a copy of MANAGEMENT by Brian Tracy.

The author shares many useful techniques, including this one: THE SWAN Formula for selecting the best people:
Look for those who are smart, work hard, ambitious and nice.

I reviewed this book in BLAINESWORLD #1006 and enjoyed it.

To enter: Send an email to: blainc@aol.com and put CONTEST #19 in the subject line. In the body of the email, please include your small mail address. All entries must be received on or before Monday, Sept. 26, at 9 p.m.

***** BLAINESWORLD BEST AWARD *****

This week, it goes to Tori Bailey and Vadin Ostapovich—both employees with Jewels That Dance, a fine jewelry & design studio in Asheville.

Recently, I went into the store because I could no longer get my engagement ring to fit over my knuckle.

Tori, a friendly salesperson, showed me how Windex could be used to help me get the ring off. She also measured its size and recommended that I let Vadin, a helpful jeweler, see if he could make it fit better.

He did just that, and I was pleasantly surprised that I wasn't charged anything for the work that was done.

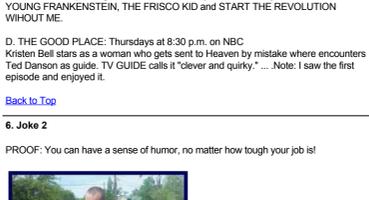

Perhaps the only negative part about this visit was that Cynthia was with me. She got too looking around and was very impressed with what she saw in the studio. Consequently, I got the distinct impression that we'll be coming back sometime in the near future.

3. Joke 1

An Englishman, a Scotsman, an Irishman, a Welshman, a Churkha, a Latvian, a Turk, an Aussie, two Kiwis, a German, an American, an Egyptian, a Japanese, a Mexican, a Spaniard, a Russian, a Pole, an Lithuanian, a Swede, a Finn, an Israeli, a Dane, a Romanian, a Bulgarian, a Serb, a Swiss, a Greek, a Singaporean, an Italian, a Norwegian, a Libyan, a Muslim, a Hindu, a Buddhist and an Ethiopian walk into a fine restaurant.... The very proper maitre' approaches the group, scrutinizes each of them carefully and says: "I'm very sorry gentlemen. But you cannot be admitted without a Thai."

4. Reviews

A. Saw BRIDGET JONES'S BABY, the third film in the comedy series about a single woman played by Renée Zellweger who becomes unexpectedly pregnant. The only problem: She's not sure if Colin Firth or Patrick Dempsey is the father. The film dragged for me, though I did manage to come alive in the last 15 minutes. A large part of my problem was the fact that I had already seen most of the best scenes too many times via trailers before other films. Rated R, though methinks it would appropriate for any mature teenager.

B. Saw THE FUNDAMENTALS OF CARING, a dramedy via Netflix about an 18-year-old with muscular dystrophy (Craig Roberts) who goes on a road trip with his caregiver (Paul Rudd). The story is both quirky and enjoyable, and the acting is excellent. Put this film on your radar screen. Rated NR, but certainly appropriate for anybody over the age of 12.

C. Read THE HEART OF HOSPITALITY: GREAT HOTEL AND RESTAURANT LEADERS SHARE THEIR SECRETS (SelectBooks) by Micah Solomon. Solomon, named the "new guru of customer service" by the FINANCIAL POST, is also a best-selling author and regular contributor to Forbes.com.

In this book, he shares not only the secrets he has learned, but also brings in his own personal experiences. In particular, I liked his discussion on the BUBL method of serving customers, wherein every guest is surrounded by an individual, invisible bubble that suggests the following:
Un- code (eocode) the guest's messages and pacing.
Break your schedule--be flexible and take advantage of opportunities for interaction. Leave room for additional interaction before ending the service interaction.

I also liked this recommendation about the search for senior leadership to lead any orientation:
Herve Hunter personally opens the first day or orientation of each new Ritz-Carlton hotel and resort that opens worldwide, a tradition that was started by the founding OO and that has continued without exception, to this day. So I say to any business leader, regardless of the size of the organization; unless your leg is broken or you have norovirus, get out office, stop reading my book, and go talk to your new employees. They will only be new once.

Perhaps the best part about THE HEART OF HOSPITALITY is that it can be read by anybody having to deal with customers, regardless of industry, and you'll find yourself wit dozens of ideas that can be immediately put into practice.

D. Heard THE MATCHMAKER (Hachette Audio), written by Elin Hilderbrand and read by Erin Bennett.

The book, the author's 13th novel, tells the story of a woman who has always had a gift for matchmaking; in fact, she had helped 42 happy couples get together--and all of them were still together.

But when it comes to both her daughter and her own life, things hadn't gone quite as smoothly.

THE MATCHMAKER started slowly, but by the time I was halfway through it, I couldn't wait to see what happened next. It's a sweet, heart-breaking book that is perfect for reading on the beach or any other locale.

PROOF: You can have a sense of humor, no matter how tough your job is!

A young woman was pulled over for speeding. A Louisiana State Trooper asked her car window, flipping over his ticket book. She said, "I bet you are going to try to sell me a ticket for the Louisiana Trooper's Ball." He replied, "I don't like State Troopers, I don't have balls." There was a moment of silence. He then closed his book, flipped her ticket back in his patrol car and left.

DEAR TIDE: I'm writing to say what an excellent product you have. About a month ago, I spilled some red wine on my new white blouse. My unfeeling husband began to berate me about how times I was and generally started becoming a pain in the neck. ... I soon ended up with a lot of his blood on my blouse. I tried to get the stain out using a bargain detergent, but it didn't work. So I went and got a some Tide. It did the job. ... In fact, detectives just told me that the DNA tests were negative and then my attorney said that I'm no longer a suspect. ... Well, gotta go. I now have to write a letter to the Hefly bag people. ... Signed, A relieved menopausal wife

11. Thought for the day

In ancient times, a king had a boulder placed on a roadway. Then he hid himself and watched to see if anyone would remove the huge rock. Some of the king's wealthiest merchants and courtiers came by and simply walked around it. Many loudly blamed the king for not keeping the roads clear, but none did anything about getting the stone out of the way.

Then a peasant came along carrying a load of vegetables. Upon approaching the boulder, the peasant laid down his burden and tried to move the stone to the side of the road. After much pushing and straining, he finally succeeded. After the peasant picked up his load of vegetables, he noticed a purse lying in the road where the boulder had been. The purse contained many gold coins and a note from the king indicating that the gold was for the person who removed the boulder from the roadway.

The peasant learned what many of us never understand: Every obstacle presents an opportunity to improve our condition!
